Creative Writing for Non-Majors

WITH DR. DONAGHY

ENG201 serves as an introduction to the written creative process for students who are not English majors. Since there is no better way to get a feel for creative writing than to immerse ourselves in it, we will read and discuss a wide range of creative work in this course and build a nurturing writing community in which we support each other to push our ideas as far as we can and to take risks. By the end of this course, each student will produce a portfolio of polished creative work.
