This conference will bring together representatives from regulatory agencies as well as experienced professionals from the private sector to discuss stormwater management, low-impact development, changes to weather patterns in Southern New England and the resulting changes to FEMA flood maps in Southern New England. The agenda will include guest speakers from state, federal and local regulatory agencies.

The morning discussion will focus on Stormwater discharges from Municipal Storm Sewer Systems (MS4s), the new Connecticut Construction Stormwater General Permit, and Massachusetts stormwater standards. Experts in the fields of low-impact development (LID) and stormwater solutions will also provide discussions on compliance with stormwater standards.

The afternoon speakers will present issues associated with the new FEMA flood maps, the changing flood patterns seen throughout the region and the 2012 Flood Insurance Reform Act.

This event will provide a great educational opportunity for anyone involved in the permitting of and environmental compliance for construction sites or municipal storm water systems as well as those affected by changes to the region’s changing flood patterns. It will also provide an excellent networking atmosphere for attendees to meet and speak with regulatory experts and experts in the industry.
