The School of Continuing Education at Eastern Connecticut State University provides opportunities for lifelong learning to individuals and organizations throughout the region. The School provides access to diverse populations, including individuals beginning or returning to college and current Eastern undergraduates who take advantage of Global Field Courses, Study Abroad and summer and winter sessions which are administered by the School. The regional workforce is served through a variety of noncredit programs.

The Associate of Science degree and the Bachelor of General Studies degree are offered by the School of Continuing Education. The Credit for Lifelong Learning program and opportunities to earn credit through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) and DSST testing provide opportunities for students to earn college credit for learning acquired outside the classroom.

The School of Continuing Education offers off-campus courses at the Groton Site and at Capital Community College and Manchester Community College. Visit www1.easternct.edu/ce/ for additional information.
