Eastern Accepting Applications for Summer Institute for Future Teachers

Willimantic, Conn. – The Education Department at Eastern Connecticut State University is still accepting applications for their Summer Institute for Future Teachers (SIFT) being held from July 8 –Aug. 3, 2007.

Held at Eastern Connecticut State University, the Summer Institute for Future Teachers is an intensive, three-week residential program that engages and challenges highly qualified high school students by exposing them to the teaching profession, developing their knowledge and skills, and inspiring them to continue in this career path. The program features diversity at every level of staffing and student involvement. SIFT demonstrates a blend of theory and practice – and a balance between dynamic interaction and careful reflection. The successful completion of this course earns students college credits. The program is for rising high school juniors and seniors (current high school sophomores and juniors). The application deadline is May 30, 2007.

For more information, visit the Summer Institute for Future Teachers on Eastern's website or contact David Stoloff, chair of Eastern's Education Department at (860) 465-5501, or e-mail stoloffd@easternct.edu.
