Mama’s lecture

Summoning up his childhood in Africa and the complex rituals of entering adult life, master storyteller Raoul Mama, professor of English at Eastern Connecticut State University in Willimantic, shared his experiences while writing his book ‘Fortune’s Favored Child’ recently during ECSU’s University Hour lecture series. An ECSU icon, Mama is seen regularly in the community discussing African history and the art of storytelling.