A spectrum of colors at Eastern

WILLIMANTIC — “Spectra,” the second exhibition of the 2016 spring semester at Eastern Connecticut State University’s Fine Arts Instructional Center, is currently on display until April 21.

The exhibit is curated by Roxanne Deojay, coordinator for Gallery and Museum Operations, in collaboration with Jeff Calissi, Kristen Morgan, Maline Werness-Rude, James Holland and Imna Arroyo.

The exhibition explores identity through light and related phenomena across an expansive field of disciplines while using new and traditional methods of inquiry.

“‘Spectra’ is a unique exhibition and I worked with a team of talented individuals in multiple areas of disciplines for many long hours,” said Deojay. “I wanted to work with these individuals and come up with something that reached out and crossed various paths, so together we came up with this idea and group of artists.”

The exhibit features works by artists Chris Coleman, Erika Harrsch, Marta Jimenez Salcedo, Ana De Olregoso and Noah Vawter.

Admission to “Spectra” is free.

Gallery hours are Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursdays from 1 to 7 p.m.; and Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.
