ABOVE: On Thursday evening, the Eastern Connecticut State University Fine Arts Instructional Center was host to the opening art exhibit, “Place, in Time: Rediscovering the work of J. Alden Weir” featuring 30 large-scale original photographs by contemporary Windham artist T. Harrison Judd, that share an aesthetic with famous American Impressionist and Windham resident, J. Alden Weir. On the right, photographer Judd speaks with printmaker Martin Axon of Madison. The two images on the left are photographs by Judd. LEFT: Cynthia L. Dodd of the Dirt Salon, in Hartford, and Judith Green, interim Director of Development of the Wadsworth Atheneum Museum of Art, view some art works.
