CHINA has a very high growth rate economically, which provides many business opportunities for U.S. companies. This travel course will allow students to gain first-hand experience on the development of China and explore possibilities to develop business relations with China. Chinese business persons and scholars will be invited to give lectures to the class. Students will also visit various businesses in China.

We will fly to Shanghai, the biggest commercial city in China. After touring the city, we will go to Nanjing and then Qufu, the birthplace of Confucius. Our last stop will be Beijing, the capital city of China, to see the world renowned Great Wall and Forbidden City.

COSTS
Approximately $3,000, which includes the round trip airfares from United States to China, all accommodations and admission fees of sightseeing. (Tuition is additional. Incidental fees in China are not included.) We have tried our best to contain the costs of this trip, but most importantly provide students with a reasonably comfortable journey as much as the budget will allow. Note: Any student who is interested in China can sign up for this course.
