Time and Place: From Monday, May 23 through Saturday, May 28, 2005, from 9:00 am to 4:15 pm, Goddard 202.

Text: For All Practical Purposes, 6th edition, COMAP

Calculator: You will need a calculator that is capable of computing exponents.

Office hours: By appointment, right after class.

Prerequisites: MAT 101 or placement at this level.

Course topics: Selected material from chapters 1, 2, 12, 13, 21, and 22.

Class format: Each class meeting will include lecturing and related problem solving.

Attendance: It is expected that you be there on time for each and every class. Due to the intensity of the course, skipping classes is strongly discouraged. If for some reason you should miss (part of) a class, then it is your responsibility to find out from a friend what has been covered and assigned and make it up. I reserve the right to lower a grade for poor attendance.

Homework: After each class you will get a homework assignment. It will not be collected and graded, but must be completed and should prepare you for the exams.

Exams: There will be two longer exams on Wednesday, May 25, and Friday, May 27, and a shorter one on Saturday, May 28, 2005.

Evaluation: The longer exams will account for 40% of your grade each and the shorter one for the remaining 20%.

Grades: The ranges for the grades are the following:

A-, A	90% and above
B-, B, B+	80% - 89%
C-, C, C+	70% - 79%
D, D+	60% - 69%

How to get help: You are encouraged to come see me for help after class, if you have difficulties with the subject matter.

Students with disabilities: If you are a student with a disability and believe you will need accommodation for this class, it is your responsibility to contact the Office of AccessAbility Services at (860) 465-5573. To avoid any delay in the receipt of accommodations, you should contact the Office of AccessAbility Services as soon as possible. Please understand that I cannot provide accommodations based upon disability until I have received an accommodation letter from the Office of AccessAbility Services. Your cooperation is appreciated.
