

This course provides students with an introduction to Asian philosophies that focuses on social and political philosophy and the East Asian region. It covers a wide range of philosophical traditions - including Confucianism, Daoism, Legalism, Marxism, and Feminism - to help students develop critical insights into major philosophical debates. Course assignments give students the opportunity to hone a variety of transferable skills, especially writing.

If you are interested in:

- Asian culture, history and thought
 - Asian religions such as Buddhism and Daoism
 - Asian political ideologies such as Communism and Feminism
- Consider applying!!

PHI 210 Asian Philosophies

A Critical Introduction to East and Southeast Asian Thought

Fall 2024

GODDAR 203 1:00-1:50pm

Prof. Justin Theodra (theodraj@easternct.edu)