

Connecticut Early Learning
and Development Standards

Transcript for the video:

Learning All the Time: Making the Most of Everyday Experiences

This video has captions. You can turn them on by clicking the captions icon at the bottom of the video.

Cathy Tormey, Family Child Care Provider, Cathy Cares Child Care: It's just really easy to ask them questions about things in the home, or to show them things and just use what's around.

Cathy: How many eggs do you see?

Child: One, two.

Cathy: Two; we need two eggs for our bread.

Cathy Tormey: You don't need a lot; you just need to use it. Like with the laundry; I've noticed that their fine motor skills are even better than two months ago, because they've been doing in on a regular basis.

Cathy: Is it all done? Okay, close the cover.

Cathy Tormey: I mean there's a lot of opportunities to do little things that eventually matter and become a bigger thing.

Cathy: Thank you. Can we pile them that way now? Good job! Go get some more.

Cathy Tormey: So it's just using what's around and taking advantage of it, and they love it.